VOLUME 16

NUMBER 7

JULY 2002

Q: What do they sing in the jungle on the Fourth of July?
A: Tarzan Stripes Forever.

American: Someone who works hard on a farm so he can move into the city, where he can make enough money to move back to the farm.

Summer School: A desperate alternative to a summer job.

If you line up all the cars at Yellowstone end-to-end, some idiot will try to pass them.

Give a man a fish and he'll eat for a day. Teach him to fish and he'll sit in a boat and drink all day.

"Hey, Johnny," a fourth grader said to his friend as they sat down in the cafeteria for lunch, "do you say prayers before you eat?"

"Nah," Johnny replied, "my mom is a good cook."

An American journalist in Jerusalem noticed an old bearded man praying vigorously at the Wailing Wall every day. "Excuse me, sir," she said, hoping to get his perspective on the current crisis, "how long have you been coming here?"

"I have come here to pray every day for twenty-five years," the old man answered. "In the morning I pray for the brotherhood of man. Then I come back in the evening and pray for an end to the fighting."

"How does it make you feel," she continued, "to come every day for all these years and pray for such things?"

The old man sighed. "Like I'm talking to a wall."

A physics professor was explaining a difficult concept to his pre-med class when a student groaned, "Why do we have to learn this stuff?"

"To save lives," the professor responded.

"So how does physics save lives?" the student persisted.

"Because," the professor explained after a long pause, "it keeps certain people out of medical school."

Little Jeffrey blurted out a profanity just as the teacher walked in. "You shouldn't use that kind of language," she scolded. "Where did you hear that word?" "From my dad," he responded. "Well, that doesn't make it right," she said sternly, "and you don't know what it means."

"I do, too," Jeffrey huffed. "It means the car won't start."

My secret for appearing intelligent:

1. Never tell people everything you know.
- 2.

American: Someone who gets upset over spending a billion dollars for education, then spends three billion on cigarettes.

Committee: A group that keeps minutes and loses hours.

The trouble with being punctual is that no one is there to notice.

Actual headline we saw:
"MISSOURI GAS CHAMBER RULED UNSAFE."

"How many women can a man marry?" little Billy asked his brother during a wedding.

"Sixteen, I think," the brother whispered.

"How do you know?"

"The preacher just said so," the brother explained thoughtfully. "Four better, four worse, four richer, four poorer."

American: someone who'll spend half a day looking for vitamin pills to make him live longer, then drives ninety miles an hour on slick pavement to make up for lost time.

What separates man from other animals? For one thing, we're not afraid of vacuum cleaners.

Synonym: The word you use if you can't spell the other one.

Three men went into business together. "I put up sixty-five percent of the capital, so I'm the president," the first declared.

"I put up thirty percent, so I'm vice president," said the second.

"I put up five percent," said the third. "What's that make me?"

The president said, "You'll be the musical consultant."

"That sounds great!" the third member exclaimed. "Um, what does that mean, exactly?"

"It means," the president explained, "when I want your advice, I'll whistle."

American: Someone who keeps his dog on a leash while his sixteen year old son runs wild.

"Don't worry," the old-fashioned groom said to his new bride, "I don't expect the first few meals to be great right away."

"That's nice, Honey," she answered, "because it takes time to find a good restaurant."

My friend Harold has been married so many times he just wedded one of his ex-wives and didn't even know it. He never would have found out except he recognized his mother-in-law.

A traveler found his seat on the airplane, and next to him was an elegant woman wearing the largest, most stunning diamond ring he had ever seen. He asked her about it.

"This is the famous Klopman Diamond," she said. "It is beautiful—but there is a terrible curse that goes along with it."

"Really?" the man said, wide-eyed. "What's the curse?"

"Mr. Klopman."
